Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The NBI U.S. Bond Private Portfolio's investment objective is to provide current income and sustained capital growth. The Fund invests directly, or through investments in securities of other mutual funds, in a portfolio composed mainly of Canadian or U.S. government or corporate bonds denominated in U.S. dollars.

The portfolio manager's security selection is based on an analysis of economic conditions in the United States and their impact on interest rates. Shorter or longer term issues will be favored depending on whether interest rates are expected to rise or fall.

Risks

The global investment risk of the Fund remains as described in the simplified prospectus or any amendments thereto and Fund Facts.

Results of Operations

For the twelve-month period ended December 31, 2024, the NBI U.S. Bond Private Portfolio's Series F units returned 1.31% compared to 1.25% for the Fund's benchmark, the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Index (USD). Unlike the benchmark, the Fund's performance is calculated after fees and expenses. Please see the Past Performance section for the returns of all of the Fund's series, which may vary mainly because of fees and expenses.

Certain series of the Fund, as applicable, may make distributions at a rate determined by the manager. This rate may change from time to time. If the aggregate amount of distributions in such series exceeds the portion of net income and net realized capital gains allocated to such series, the excess will constitute a return of capital. The manager does not believe that the return of capital distributions made by such series of the Fund have a meaningful impact on the Fund's ability to implement its investment strategy or to fulfill its investment objective.

The Fund's net asset value dropped by 0.15% over the period, from $101.45 million as at December 31, 2023 to $101.30 million as at December 31, 2024.

The first half of 2024 saw bouts of volatility on the rates side as employment and inflation showed signs of resiliency. However, during the second quarter some weaker economic numbers such as leading indicators and retail data counterbalanced the move in rates. The third quarter of 2024 experienced a solid rally on the rates side as inflation moved in the right direction and rate cut expectations kept building up among market participants. Some weaker economic numbers such as lower revision on the employment front and some leading indicators suggesting a contraction in the manufacturing sector helped fuel the bond market rally and led the Federal reserve to begin it monetary easing cycle. The fourth quarter of 2024 came to an end, completely reversing the gain of the third quarter where the bond market sold off following higher inflation and growth expectation for next year due to the victory of president elect Trump and its economic agenda. Even though inflation is heading in the right direction, it remains above target, thus forcing the FED to play defense. We are observing weaker economic numbers such as the divergence between the NonFarm Payroll (NFP) and household survey and some leading indicators suggesting a contraction in the manufacturing sector. Year-to-date, among the G10, yield curves have all steepened, and rates were higher across the curve in the US, UK, Australia and Japan, while the outperformer were Italy and Canada.

The Federal Reserve decided to remain on the sideline and keep its monetary policy unchanged as inflation in the services component still hovering at level considered too high for the first half of the year. For the second half of the year, The Federal Reserve decided to lower its target range for the federal funds rate highlighting the progress on the inflation front, but also indicated the intention of cutting less in 2025 because of the outlook on the economy and inflation for 2025. In Europe, the ECB cut rates during the year, as inflationary pressure eased, and economic environment showed signs of softness, while the Bank of England decide to be more prudent with smaller cuts and holding in December even though there are clear sign of economic slowdown in the country. In Asia, Japan decided to keep the status quo during the second half while China decided to cut rates and is pushing aggressively of easing on the monetary front. On the emerging market front, central banks in Mexico, Colombia, Peru, Chile, South Africa cut rates, while we saw the central bank of Brazil hiking to defend its currency due to fiscal spending that needs to be address and tame.

On the credit front, the market performed relatively well while still has experiencing some volatility. For the first half of the year many corporate issuers came to market to issue bonds to benefit from the credit condition. In June, we saw some spread widening following a combination of weaker economic numbers, volatility coming out of Europe, and expectations of monetary policy that will be tighter for longer. The market experienced volatility in August following the Nikkei event where credit spreads widened. That event was short lived and ended up being a buying opportunity. Early September was busy with many corporate new issuances. The market welcomed favorably the election results in November but gave back in December following the more hawkish tone of the FED. Investment grade, high yield and EM credit experienced some weakness in the last month of the year.

In this context, the Fund outperformed the benchmark. Overall, the main generator of performance came from security selection and sector allocation.

Recent Developments

During the period, the portfolio manager took profit on credit as credit spreads are sitting at a historical low level, leaving little room for further spread compression. He has also trimmed the steepening position.

Even though most of Central Bankers globally cut rates in 2024, rates were up across most of G10 countries and EM local as well. Expectations of stronger growth, lost of discipline on the fiscal side and resiliency on the inflation front were all factors that led to steeper yield curves and higher rates across.

The global bond market offers a lot of opportunities, and the asset class is attractive considering higher rates globally. We expect economic softness in the coming quarters, and we prefer duration risk than credit risk. We also prefer to keep some dry powder to deploy when credit spread will be wider. Starting Q1 2025, the strategy is well positioned to encounter various market environments.

- (i) This information is derived from the Fund's Annual Audited Financial Statements. The net assets per unit presented in the financial statements might differ from the net asset value calculated for fund pricing purposes. The differences are explained in the notes to the financial statements.
- (2) Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase or decrease from operations is based on the average number of units outstanding over the accounting period.
- <sup>(3)</sup> Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional units of the Fund, or both.
- (4) The net assets are calculated in accordance with IFRS.
- $^{\scriptscriptstyle (\!S\!)}$  This information is provided as at the last day of the accounting period shown.
- (6) Management expense ratio is based on total expenses including sales taxes for the accounting period indicated (excluding commission, other portfolio transaction costs and withholding taxes) and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net value during the accounting period. The management expense ratio includes, if necessary, the management expenses from its underlying funds, as described in Article 15.2 of Regulation 81-106.
- (*) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the accounting period. The trading expense ratio includes, if necessary, the trading expenses from its underlying funds, as described in Article 15.2 of Regulation 81-106.
- <sup>(8)</sup> The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund portfolio's manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the accounting period. The higher a Fund's portfolio turnover rate in an accounting period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the accounting period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the accounting period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a Fund.
