Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The NBI Diversified Emerging Markets Equity Fund's investment objective is to provide long-term capital growth. The Fund invests directly, or through investments in securities of other mutual funds, in a portfolio composed mainly of common shares of issuers located in emerging markets.

The portfolio's sub-advisors incorporate a combination of investment strategies to achieve their investment objectives. Newton Investment Management (North America) Limited's strategy follows a fundamental bottom-up security selection approach within a global thematic investment framework, taking a long-term investment horizon to drive capital returns. The strategy is a high conviction, fundamentally driven, benchmark agnostic approach with an emphasis on quality and good governance. Goldman Sachs Assets Management, L.P. incorporates a rigorous research process combining qualitative insights and information technology, to process and analyze significant amounts of company and market data. The research process is designed to add value through security selection and to manage risk. In selecting securities, Goldman Sachs Assets Management, L.P. analyzes data pertaining to high-quality business models, poor fundamental stock valuations, market themes and trends, and market sentiment. Goldman Sachs Assets Management L.P. then uses a quantitative process to select and weigh portfolio securities. The approach aims to achieve a well-diversified portfolio with a focus on risk management.

Riske

The global investment risk of the Fund remains as described in the simplified prospectus or any amendments thereto and Fund Facts.

Results of Operations

For the twelve-month period ended December 31, 2022, the NBI Diversified Emerging Markets Equity Fund's Investor Series units returned -17.19% compared to -14.28% for the Fund's benchmark, the MSCI Emerging Markets Index (CAD). Unlike the benchmark, the Fund's performance is calculated after fees and expenses. Please see the Past Performance section for the returns of all of the Fund's series, which may vary mainly because of fees and expenses.

Certain series of the Fund, as applicable, may make distributions at a rate determined by the manager. This rate may change from time to time. If the aggregate amount of distributions in such series exceeds the portion of net income and net realized capital gains allocated to such series, the excess will constitute a return of capital. The manager does not believe that the return of capital distributions made by such series of the Fund have a meaningful impact on the Fund's ability to implement its investment strategy or to fulfill its investment objective.

The Fund's net asset value dropped by 4.79% over the period, from $2.024 billion as at December 31, 2021 to $1.927 billion as at December 31, 2022.

In contrast to the preceding six quarters, the MSCI Emerging Markets Index delivered a positive return in the final three months of the year. However, in spite of this final flourish, the asset class still registered a material decline for the year as a whole. A multitude of factors conspired to pull indices lower, though the common thread was higher inflation, and its consequences. Inflation, already an issue towards the end of 2021, rose sharply following Russia's invasion of Ukraine which caused a surge in commodity prices. As a result, inflation continued to overshoot expectations, necessitating a more hawkish approach by central banks, not least the US Federal Reserve (Fed), which accelerated the pace of interest-rate rises as the review period progressed. This steeper-than-expected trajectory of monetary tightening, resulting in higher bond yields, and thus discount rates, drove a renewed derating of equities, with longer-duration growth names once again most vulnerable.

Moving through the review period, it was recession, stemming from the pressure rising prices have placed upon consumers, which became the dominant concern. Economic data out of China was generally weak, with tight Covid-19 restrictions over much of the year and supply-chain bottleneckissues limiting growth. However, in the latter stages of 2022 there was increased optimism that China could ease its strict Covid-19 restrictions, despite rising infections. Sentiment was also bolstered by a government vaccination drive for the elderly population, and the securities regulator making it easier for property developers to raise equity.

Under these circumstances, the Fund underperformed its benchmark.

During most of the review period, we witnessed a continuation of the major rotation in the market from so-called "growth" to "value" stocks which had commenced in the final quarter of 2021. This was a significant headwind for the Fund which has a bias towards stocks with higher growth and returns on equity than the performance benchmark. Globant, MercadoLibre, Sea, ASML and Info Edge were among the stocks that underperformed in this environment.

Following the Russian invasion of Ukraine, trading was halted in the Fund's small sole Russian-listed holding, online recruitment platform HeadHunter, before it was written down to zero. Technology company EPAM Systems declined in the market rotation in January and was further affected by having the majority of employees based in Russia, Ukraine and Belarus. However, the Fund benefited from its low exposure to Russia, in particular not holding oil companies Gazprom and Lukoil and financial Sberbank.

Hong Kong insurer AIA was the top contributor over the period amid an improvement in the prospects for new business value. Key markets opened up after a surge in Covid-19 cases earlier in the year. Restaurant chain owner, Yum Brand, also outperformed on optimism of an economic reopening in China that would boost economic growth.

Brazil hugely outperformed the wider index, and the Fund's holdings in industrial electronic equipment manufacturer WEG and stock exchange operator B₃ were both top contributors.

Recent Developments

A number of stocks were bought and sold during the period. The largest ones of which are highlighted below.

In the consumer space, we initiated a new holding in Marico, which is a leading consumer-goods company in India operating in the wellness and nutrition segments, with market leadership in items such as coconut hair oil, edible oils and skin care. The company also has a market-leading position in other developing markets, including Bangladesh, Vietnam and North Africa. We also bought Brazil's largest retail pharmacy business, Raia Drogasil. We believe that Brazil's ageing population should provide a strong growth tailwind for Raia's branded and generic drugs. A further opportunity for growth comes from the number of pharmacies per capita in Brazil being less than half of the global average.

We sold the holding in Alibaba. While the company remains the dominant e-commerce platform in China, we believe that several other online and e-commerce businesses in China look more attractive with regard to governance and competitive dynamics. We channelled the proceeds from the Alibaba sale into Meituan, China's leading food and consumer-service delivery platform, which is a potential beneficiary of China's reopening. We also sold the holding in India's Jubilant Foodworks, on incremental concerns over the change of chief executive officer, capital allocation and governance.

Within the information technology sector, we bought South Korean memory chip maker SK Hynix. We feel that there has been an improvement in the market dynamics given the consolidation in the market. The long-term demand outlook on the high-performance computing (HPC) server side is compelling, and Hynix is a leading business with a valuation that we believed offered an attractive riskreward profile. We also initiated a position in China's Wuxi Lead, which is a lithium-ion battery manufacturing equipment supplier to leading global battery makers including CATL and BYD. Wuxi has a competitive advantage in offering a leading turnkey solution comprising a full suite of front, middle and back-end battery-production equipment. Future capital expenditure expansion by battery makers, driven by strong endmarket demand, should drive strong growth and returns for Wuxi. Wuxi may also benefit from international expansion in European markets where there is a higher demand for turnkey solutions given the smaller, more immature battery-manufacturing market.

We had reduced the holding in EPAM Systems several times during the first quarter and finally exited by the end of February, given the inherent risks of its aforementioned employee exposure. There is also concern over its US and European customer base continuing to offer contracts to EPAM, given where its operations are located. Elsewhere, we sold the holding in Chinese solar-glass manufacturer Flat Glass on uncertainty about the company's ability to sustainably deliver attractive returns on capital.

Within financials, we bought Bank Mandiri, which is the largest bank by assets and third-largest bank by market capitalization in Indonesia. Over the last five years, the management has successfully restructured the bank, greatly improving its risk profile by applying a more nuanced credit growth strategy, while investments in technology and investment platforms have resulted in a substantial decline in the bank's cost of funding. The macroeconomic dynamics in Indonesia are attractive, providing a long runway for growth, and we believe Mandiri is a competitively advantaged business that should earn superior returns on invested capital. We bought Peruvian financial-services provider Credicorp. The group, which is widely known to support economic development, has significant growth opportunities in the areas of increasing financial inclusion—given low levels of banking penetration in Peru—and helping the "unbanked" to access financial products. We also initiated a new holding in XP, which is a technology-driven investment platform and a provider of low-fee financial products and services in Brazil. We believe XP has significant growth potential, with the asset management market in Brazil having consistently grown at a double-digit pace over the last 14 years.

Elsewhere, we initiated a position in Brazil's WEG, which is one of the world's largest producers of industrial electronic equipment and a domestic leader, reflecting its product quality and client support. WEG has a strong growth outlook driven by its thematic support through decarbonization, "industry 4.0" (the current trend of automation and data exchange in manufacturing technologies, including cyber-physical systems), sanitation investment in Brazil, increasing international market share, renewable-energy investments and e-mobility. We also invested in NetEase, which is a best-in-class gaming company that we believe will sustain its leadership in multiplayer online gaming. We expect NetEase to continue to deliver double-digit revenue and earnings growth, driven by higher monetization in its core China market and a successful expansion into international markets.

We sold the holding in Tencent Music Entertainment as we doubt that the company will be able to successfully monetize its music-streaming business and think its highly cash-generative social entertainment division under will be under increased competitive pressure. We also sold the holding in LG Chem after a period in which the stock performed strongly relative to the market despite ongoing operational disappointments.

Performance factors, combined with the aforementioned trading activity, has meant that the Fund's weighting in the consumer staples has increased and consumer discretionary has reduced by a similar degree. The weighting in financials and industrials has increased and information technology and materials has decreased.

On a country basis, the Fund remains most overweight in India as we believe the country offers many of the best investment cases in emerging markets over five years and beyond.

The Fund is also overweight China/Hong Kong where there is large exposure to businesses which will benefit from China upgrading their economy to become self-sufficient or even assume leadership in certain strategic and value-add industries.

Over the short term, we believe asset prices are likely to continue to be influenced by the inflationary forces we see in the US, along with the response of the US Federal Reserve. Other variables will probably influence the trajectory of equities in emerging markets in the coming months, including the conflict in Ukraine, commodity prices, the strength of the US dollar and news from China, especially in relation to Covid-19 policy and macro-financial conditions. Emerging-market equities currently trade at an unusually high discount to developed markets, providing a conducive backdrop if these shorter-term variables prove favourable for emerging markets.

We are more comfortable about highlighting the longer-term opportunities in emerging markets. These are based on relatively higher levels of income growth, rapid increases in product penetration and scope for industry consolidation. We believe that there is a unique opportunity for emerging-market companies that are well exposed to reliable secular-growth trends and that can exploit this opportunity more than their peers with their differentiated customer offering and execution. Accordingly, we believe that emerging-market investors who can identify the right growth themes and companies should be rewarded over the long term.

On April 30, 2022, the Fund's independent review committee (the "IRC") was reduced to three members when Robert Martin resigned as IRC member. On May 1, 2022, the Fund's IRC was increased to four members when Line Deslandes was appointed as IRC member. However, on September 30, 2022, the Fund's IRC was reduced to three members when Line Deslandes resigned as IRC member.

On May 20, 2022, NBI discontinued the purchase offering of deferred sales charge and low sales charge purchase options for all new investments, including purchases made through systematic plans in all Canadian jurisdictions. Investors who purchased units under these sales charge options will continue to be subject to the redemption fee schedules under which they were purchased.

⁽e) This information is derived from the Fund's Annual Audited Financial Statements. The net assets per unit presented in the financial statements might differ from the net asset value calculated for fund pricing purposes. The differences are explained in the notes to the financial statements.

⁽²⁾ Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase or decrease from operations is based on the average number of units outstanding over the accounting period.

 $^{^{}m (3)}$ Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional units of the Fund, or both.

⁽b) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the accounting period. The trading expense ratio includes, if necessary, the trading expenses from its underlying funds, as described in Article 15.2 of Regulation 81-106.

⁽⁸⁾ The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund portfolio's manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the accounting period. The higher a Fund's portfolio turnover rate in an accounting period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the accounting period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the accounting period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a Fund.
