Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The NBI Sustainable Canadian Corporate Bond ETF's investment objective is to provide a sustained level of current income and capital growth, with an emphasis on bonds issued by Canadian corporations with a carbon intensity substantially lower than that of the estimated carbon intensity of the NBI Sustainable Canadian Corporate Bond ETF's benchmark, while considering ESG issues, climate risks and contribution to UN Sustainable Development Goals. It invests, directly or indirectly through investments in securities of other mutual funds, in a portfolio comprised primarily of bonds issued by Canadian corporations.

When selecting securities, the portfolio sub-advisor uses a bottom-up approach. It selects issuers based on fundamental analysis. The portfolio sub-advisor also carries out a credit analysis on each security which is combined to the ESG analysis described in the prospectus to determine the security's weighting in the portfolio. ESG issues are assessed using relevant indicators that vary from one sector to another (in accordance with the relevant ESG issues of the sector). This analysis could include elements such as energy efficiency, greenhouse gas emissions, water management, waste management, human capital, diversity and inclusion, health and safety, board composition, compensation and financial governance among other issues.

Risks

The global investment risk of the ETF remains as described in the simplified prospectus or any amendments thereto and ETF Facts.

Results of Operations

For the twelve-month period ended December 31, 2025, the NBI Sustainable Canadian Corporate Bond ETF's units returned 3.79% compared to 4.48% for the ETF's benchmark, the FTSE Canada All Corporate Bond Index. Unlike the benchmark, the ETF's performance is calculated after fees and expenses. Please see the Past Performance section for the ETF's returns, which may vary mainly because of fees and expenses.

The Fund's net asset value rose by 12.4% over the period, from $139.94 million as at December 31, 2024 to $157.34 million as at December 31, 2025.

The increase stemmed mainly from unit purchases by investors in the Fund and from investments in the Fund by other NBI Funds.

Over the course of 2025, the yield curve has become considerably more weighed down, with short-term rates falling and long-term rates rising. For example, two-year maturity rates decreased by 0.34% and 30-year maturity rates increased by 0.53%. On the sector side, there was a broad-based narrowing of credit spreads and the largest change in corporate bonds. The differences between the provinces and municipalities also narrowed, but the movement was less pronounced than on the corporate side.

All in all, this results in a positive return of 2.64% for the FTSE Canada Universe Bond Index.

In this context, the Fund underperformed compared to its benchmark. The main contributors were duration (0.01%), curve (-0.01%), sector (-0.07%), selected securities (0.02%).

Recent Developments

Over the course of 2025, the fund's duration remained similar to that of the benchmark. The fund is still overexposed to bonds with 5-year and 30-year maturities, but underexposed to 2-year and 10-year maturities. Overexposure to provincial bonds remains at a similar level of +0.16 year-to-date versus the index and a slight exposure to federal bonds is now in place. Given that the benchmark is 100% in corporate bonds, this contributes to the underexposure to this sector, which stands at -0.29 dollar years at the end of the year. The portfolio remains significantly underexposed to the energy industry and overexposed to the infrastructure, communications and financials industries.

The past year has been marked by a rapid reconfiguration of the North American macroeconomic environment, largely dependent on the political and trade orientations adopted in the United States. The election of Donald Trump and the accelerated implementation of protectionist policies have introduced a high level of uncertainty, influencing both the growth outlook, the fiscal path and the behaviour of financial markets, particularly the bond market.

Over the course of 2025, the percentage of impact bonds (green, social and sustainable) in the portfolio increased from 36.2% to 38.4% of the total market value, thanks in particular to the addition of two new green bond issues and one social bond issuance.

The Fund has adhered to its ESG strategy as disclosed in the prospectus. During the period, there were no material divestments of portfolio securities as a result of the Fund's ESG strategy or applicable normative exclusions.

On or about May 14, 2025, National Bank Investments Inc. ("NBI") replaced National Bank Trust Inc. ("NBT") as portfolio manager of the ETF. The investment objectives of the ETF remain unchanged. This change has no impact on the sub-advisor currently making investment decisions for the ETF.

Past Performance

The performance of the ETF, presented below and calculated as at December 31 of each year, is based on the net asset value of the ETF. It assumes that all distributions made in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the ETF. These returns do not take into account sales, redemption charges, distributions, or optional charges that would have reduced returns. Past performance of an ETF does not necessarily indicate how it will perform in the future.

The bar chart indicates the performance of the ETF for each of the years shown and illustrates how the performance has changed from year to year. It shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on January 1 (or made commencing from the start of the ETF) would have grown or decreased by December 31 of that year, in the case of the Annual management report of fund performance, or by June 30, in the case of the Interim management report of fund performance.

[1] This information is derived from the ETF's Annual Audited Financial Statements. The net assets per unit presented in the financial statements might differ from the net asset value calculated for ETF pricing purposes. The differences are explained in the notes to the financial statements.

[2] The net assets are calculated in accordance with IFRS.

[3] Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase or decrease from operations is based on the average number of units outstanding over the accounting period.

[4] Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional units of the ETF, or both.

[5] This information is provided as at the last day of the accounting period shown.

[6] Management expense ratio is based on total expenses including sales taxes for the accounting period indicated (excluding commission, other portfolio transaction costs and withholding taxes) and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net value during the accounting period. The management expense ratio includes, if necessary, the management expenses from its underlying funds, as described in Article 15.2 of Regulation 81-106.

[7] The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the accounting period. The trading expense ratio includes, if necessary, the trading expenses from its underlying funds, as described in Article 15.2 of Regulation 81-106.

[8] The ETF's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the ETF portfolio's manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the ETF buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the accounting period. The higher an ETF's portfolio turnover rate in an accounting period, the greater the trading costs payable by the ETF in the accounting period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the accounting period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of an ETF.

[9] Closing market price on the last trading day of the year as reported on the TSX.
